A 63-year-old COVID-19 patient admitted to ESIS hospital in Kandivli East committed suicide by hanging herself with a saree on Sunday.

The reason for her suicide is yet to be ascertained but the investigators and hospital staff believe that she may have slipped into depression after she tested positive for COVID-19.

The location where she hanged herself to death is a dormant area of the hospital and people hardly go there. "One cleaning staff member of the hospital noticed her neck and jumped from the sixth floor.

The woman is the resident of Parel and was brought to the ESIS hospital just four days ago. "There is no foul play in the matter. Her relatives have been informed and they have told us to conduct her last rites as per government guidelines as she was a COVID-19 patient," an officer said.
